SESSIONS IN PARALLEL

10:15 – 11:00

Capacity
Building HubEnergy Efficiency Policy Actions and Market Development*AD11

Energy efficiency is “the first fuel” for energy security and alleviating energy poverty while reducing GHGs. This session will recommend policy actions for energy efficiency in lighting, appliances and equipment, which consume over half of electricity globally. Actions discussed will include applying U4E’s Model Regulations through voluntary financial mechanisms, mandatory MEPS and labels, regional policy harmonization, and market transformation approaches.

Lead Organizers: UNEP, UNIDO, United 4 Efficiency

10:15 – 11:00

Achieving SDG7 Requires Successful DRE Entrepreneurs*Auditorium

Private investment and entrepreneurship for decentralised renewable energy (DRE) is needed to ensure universal access to energy by 2030. Public funding is essential to moving the cost burden away from the consumer and ensuring sustainable businesses. This session will look at leveraging successes from developed and developing markets as well as developing & leveraging PPP’s to mobilise appropriate finance.

Lead Organizers: AMDA, GOGLA

Powering Jobs: Building a Workforce to Meet the SDG7 Challenge*MH1

Achieving universal energy access relies on creating and cultivating renewable energy jobs, providing a global opportunity to drive employment and economic growth. However, more workforce investments are needed, especially when it comes to women and youth. This session will highlight several new initiatives working to build the skills and ecosystems required by the energy practitioners of the future.

Lead Organizers: Power for All, ARE

Data-Led Innovation for Clean Cooking*AD12

What are the right measurements to capture the co-benefits and impacts of clean cooking? How do we get that data in front of the right people to leverage investment? This interactive session will bring together multiple initiatives currently improving how we measure impact and build data streams for cross-sector knowledge sharing and new financing options.

Lead Organizers: Nexleaf Analytics, Duke University

Scaling Electric Mobility in the Global South*AD10

Transport energy is a vast and costly consumer of energy, carbon emitter, and fatal polluter in the global south. But a boom is underway in startups offering electric vehicles that cost less to buy and operate. This session showcases three such solutions, the carbon savings of transport electrification, and the policy and financing instruments required to make it happen.

Lead Organizer: Ampersand

Modern Energy Minimum: A new energy threshold*Mezzanine

The principal indicator to measure progress against SDG7 correlates with having an income of less than $1/day. The Modern Energy Minimum threshold of 1,000 kWh in consumption includes electricity use at home and in the broader economy. The new threshold reflects the full spirit of SDG7 and puts people at the centre of energy transitions.

Lead Organizers: The Energy for Growth Hub, The Global Energy Alliance for People & Planet (GEAPP)
